Pact gets tentative ratification

The Granite City Council unanimously gave its approval Tuesday night to a tentative agreement between the city and firefighters Local 253, but insisted on seeing the contract on paper before final ratification.

The firefighters' union unanimously approved the agreement Monday night.

Following a closed session at the council meeting Tuesday night, Alderman Dan Partney made a motion to approve the tentative agreement, reached last week, subject to review of the final language and final approval of the council.

According to aldermen, the council has not yet been given a draft of the proposed contract.

Alderman Jeff Worthen said the council "would be foolish" to ratify the agreement without first seeing it.

Aldermen and union representatives declined to give specifics of the tentative agreement.

A letter addressed to both negotiating parties from arbitrator Peter Feuille, who sat in on the bargaining session where the agreement was reached last week, commends both sides for attaining the settlement.

"This negotiated resolution would not have been possible without the good faith, good will, and reasonableness displayed on both sides of the bargaining table, and you and your colleagues deserve all the credit for this mutually satisfactory outcome," the letter states.

The letter calls the agreement a "win-win" situation, and says it contains "significant improvements for both sides," providing "a much better balanced outcome than would have occurred via any final offer arbitration."

Workers from KMH Turf and Landscaping Inc. make repairs to the 17th green at Arlington Golf Club Tuesday.

Golf course being repaired

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Despite vandalism early Sunday morning that made the back nine holes at Arlington Golf Club unplayable and a fire Sunday night that destroyed 21 golf carts, owner Terry Tessary vows the club will be back in full swing Friday.

A crew from KMH Turf and Landscaping Inc. of St. Louis has been working all week to repair the damaged 10th through 18th greens, and will work well into the evenings if necessary to ensure that the full course, located in the Arlington subdivision between Pontoon Beach and Collinsville off State Road 35, is playable by the weekend, Tessary said.

The front nine holes have remained open, and,

Tessary said, the back nine will be open Friday. He said the damage was done between midnight and 2 a.m. Sunday. He said an employee of the course, Bob Lovatto, reported to work at about 2:10 a.m. and discovered the damage, apparently caused by a pickup truck "doing doughnuts" by skidding on the greens.

The Madison County Sheriff's Department is investigating the incident.

Capt. Jack Fields of the Sheriff's Department said physical evidence was collected at the scene, including a Missouri license plate from the 16th green he suspects fell from the vehicle that did the damage.

He said the owner of the pickup truck to which the plate is registered has been interrogated, and

Street workers plan to strike

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Following attempts to have their labor dispute negotiated with the city or settled by an arbitrator, Madison Street Department workers, members of Teamsters Local 525, have notified the city of their intent to strike.

But Mayor John Bellico, with the backing of a majority of the City Council, insists he will not cave in to demands that he says would create a financial hardship for the city and its taxpayers.

The city's contract with 11 street department employees, an alarm department worker, and a recreation department employee expired Aug. 1. Meetings with a federal mediator began Aug. 9.

According to a Sept. 27 letter from Steve McGinness, assistant business agent for the union, the union has asked to "take out standing matters before an arbitrator," but the city refused.

"Let this letter serve as official notice that Teamsters Local 525 is giving notice of intent to strike the city of Madison," the letter says.

Bellico said he received the letter at 11:20 a.m. Sept. 30. The union is required to give five days notice before striking, making Monday the earliest a walk-out could occur.

Reached by telephone Wednesday, McGinness said he was unsure whether a walkout would occur, but that the letter had to be sent before the action could legally be considered.

He added that he would be "more than happy to meet with the city's negotiators, if they are willing."

The city apparently is prepared to hire replacement workers in the event of a strike.

Bellico told a reporter (See STRIKE, Page 8A)

Remap faces challenge

U.S. Reps. Jerry Costello and Richard Durbin will ask a federal court to reject a proposed Republican remap of congressional districts that would split Madison and St. Clair counties.

The two Democrats say the GOP plan violates the federal Voting Rights Act.

Durbin said the Republican plan "does more damage to downstate Illinois than anything since the Civil War."

The GOP remap proposal would put Madison County, excluding 3,500 Venice residents, into a district that includes Durbin's Springfield home. Madison County is now in the district that includes Costello's Belleville home.

The new Costello district would extend to the southern tip of the state at Cairo and would include the home of U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, a Democrat from Carterville.

No matter what the final remap looks like, Costello will "definitely run for re-election," his press secretary Brian Lott said. "The question is where he would run."

Lott said there was "a possibility (Costello) could move and run in the district Durbin represents, although it's not a strong

River country observers see a mild winter ahead

Woolly bear worms are turning brown and wild bees are working overtime to store honey for winter.

"All the signs point to an early fall," said Virginia Britt, who has spent her life observing the river country. But signs also point to a mild winter, she added.

Britt has been keeping an eye on the woolly bear worms, wild bees and insects and says she has seen hundreds of woolly worms crossing the Great River Road.

"The woolly's coat is light brown," Britt said. "That's usually a sign of a mild winter."

If the woolly worm's coat turns black in the fall, watch out for a long, cold winter, Britt said.

Every fall, when red and gold splashes across Squirrel Hollow, Britt and her sister, Ida Watson, hike into the woods to pick orange bittersweet for their roadside stand.

Watson is stacking pumpkins, apples and Turk's-turban squash on straw bales for the rush of fall sightseers along the Great River Road. "Folks will drive from as far as Springfield, Mo., to see the display of colors along the bluffs," Watson said.

Autumn visitors will load their cars with apples, pumpkins, homegrown popcorn and damson plum jelly, she said.

Watson's roadside market is nestled in a scenic valley between the bluffs and river at the west edge of Grafton.

A burst of fall color is not far off, Watson said. The first frost Sept. 9 nipped the tops of sugar maple trees and sprinkled them with red and deep purple.

"Colors are showing up in the hillsides about a week early," Watson said.

Ash, oak and hickories are showing their red and gold during the first week of October, said Tanner Girard, a biologist at Principia College. He said colors should reach a peak along the River Road in the third week of October.

Tapp's promotion approved despite Partney's opposition

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Alderman Dan Partney feels the Granite City Police Department has "too many chiefs, not enough Indians."

Partney made the statement Tuesday night in response to the promotion of Ned Tapp to the rank of sergeant last week.

"When this council passed ordinance 4563 (eliminating the quotas from the police manning table), in April of 1991, I understood the intent was to start eliminating what a lot of aldermen, but not all, considered a top-heavy department; to have fewer chiefs and more Indians," Partney said.

Partney said the promotion was "appropriate under the previous ordinance, but under 4563, it is inappropriate."

Partney asked who had authorized the promotion, and if the decision could be sent back to the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners as requested.

City Attorney Mark Goldenberg, whom Partney had asked last week to render an opinion on the issue, said he agrees with Partney that the ordinance sets no quotas for any rank, but that the decision to promote is an executive power.

He said the promotion was initiated by Chief Don Knight, who consulted with the mayor and with the City Council's Police Committee. In Goldenberg's opinion, the proper authorization was obtained before the promotion took place.

"The commissioners did have the authority due to the executive branch's authorization," Goldenberg said.

He also noted that funds for the action have been appropriated for in the budget.

Partney pointed out that the department currently has 49 officers, 19 of whom are of the rank of sergeant or above.

"Forty percent of our officers are supervisors," Partney said. "I like to see less chiefs in the Taj Mahal and more patrolmen on the streets."

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Some workers at American Steel Foundries can expect their "temporary layoff" to last at least until 1992. Works Manager Bill Donovan said Monday that the July 5 shutdown is "still indefinite," and the company has "no date" set for resumption of operations. He declined to comment further.

According to a letter made available to the Press-Record/Journal, at least some employees are not expected to be called back to work in 1991.

The Sept. 6 letter, sent by certified mail from Personnel Manager Gwen Pitchford to some company employees, informs employees that their "layoff is expected to exceed six months in duration."

Metro East Sanitary District President Walter "Shang" Greathouse said rumors of mass layoffs Oct. 1 at MESD were "absolute-ly false."

But, Greathouse was quick to add, "that doesn't mean layoffs won't take place in the future. Several times in the last three years, Greathouse, citing budget restraints, has laid off all but a skeleton crew at MESD."

"I'm not going to put this place in the hole just to keep people working," he said.

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer recently appointed Venice Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. as the first-ever Venice resident to sit on the five-man Madison County Housing Authority Board.

Valentine, who represents an area of Venice in which two of the city's four housing projects are located, vowed to take a "close look" at how the money is managed.

"There are a lot of dollars that go through the Housing Authority. There is always going to be some waste, but it does seem at first look that an awful lot of money is going into management," Valentine said.

Granite City Council members knew they were playing with political fire when they established a $6 per month fee for residential trash collection, but little did they know the logistics of the billing process would become just as difficult an obstacle to overcome.

Responding to constituent complaints that a combined sewer and trash "double bill" would create a financial hardship, and questions about separate accounts — the trash fee is to go into the general fund and the sewer charge into the sewage treatment plant fund — the Finance Committee met with the Pollution Plant Committee, the Sanitation Committee, the City Treasurer, Comptroller, Clerk and Assistant City Attorney over the last three weeks to work out details of a fair billing system.

A final decision has not yet been made.

Chouteau Township Supervisor Morris Miles announced that a test recycling program was to be initiated in the Mitchell area this week. The curbside program includes collection of plastic, metal and aluminum cans, glass, cardboard, newspapers, all metals and electrical wiring.

A curbside recycling project is also being initiated in Granite City, where 1,500 homes have been targeted. Granite City collection is limited to glass, plastic and aluminum.

Home burglarized

Arthur G. Billick, 38, of the 2800 block of Pershing Boulevard, reported a sword and worth $100, two hunting knives valued at $50 each, tools worth $10, a $20 calculator, a $17 B-B gun and $2,700 worth of Mexican coins were stolen from his home between Sept. 22 and noon Sept. 25.

A neighbor woman told Billick she had found some of the items in her juvenile stepson's bedroom, and they were returned to Billick.

An investigation was continuing.

Clarence Henry Hoffman, 48, of the 5200 block of Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested by Madison County Deputy Mike Staicoff and

Two arrested on sex charges

A 44-year-old Mitchell area man was arrested Sept. 25 and charged with two counts of aggravated criminal sexual assault.

Thomas Alvin Dooley of the 3100 block of West Chain of Rocks Road was being held in lieu of $100,000 bond.

He is alleged to have sexually assaulted two local girls, now 11 and 13 years old, between Aug. 1, 1989, and Sept. 1, 1990, according to Capt. Kip Pomeroy of the Granite City police department. Aggravated criminal sexual assault is a Class X felony, and Dooley could face a sentence of up to 60 years if convicted.

Det. Ned Tapp said his department initiated an investigation following notification by the Department of Children and Family Services about the alleged assaults.

In an unrelated case, Steven Michael Courtwright, 17, of the 2500 block of Madison Avenue, was arrested at the St. Elizabeth Medical Center security office at 9:50 a.m. Sept. 27 on a warrant charging him with aggravated criminal sexual abuse.

Bond was set at $10,000.

Pomeroy said Courtwright is alleged to have sexually abused an 8-year-old Granite City boy on June 22 of this year.

Aggravated criminal sexual abuse is a Class 2 felony.

Resisting charged

Several juveniles ran into a residence in the 2100 block of Edison Avenue when officers arrived there at 1 a.m. Sept. 28 in response to a report that loud music was being played and a disturbance was taking place.

The juveniles threw beer cans down on the porch and went inside, shutting the door to the residence.

Raoul David Pingel, 19, answered the door when an officer-knocked and said a party was taking place. Music could be heard from the back of the apartment.

Several youths were seen hiding in a stairwell. The youths poured the remaining beer down a drain and were advised to leave, a report said.

Pingel was told to keep the music volume down and not to continue the party.

At that point, Pingel allegedly pushed one officer and was backed into a corner.

Told he was under arrest, Pingel reportedly began pushing other officers who were attempting to handcuff him.

brought to the Granite City police station at 6:35 p.m. Sept. 27 on a warrant issued for revocation of probation.

Hoffman was booked and was released after posting $302 bail, pending a court hearing.

Vehicle-damaged

Both the front and rear windows on the driver's side of a 1988 Dodge auto were shattered by a vandal while the vehicle was parked in the 200 block of Wilson Park Lane, it was reported at 12:05 a.m. Sept. 28. The car is owned by Marlyss Blason of the 2300 block of St. Bernard Avenue.

Harrison seeking high court election

Justice Moses W. Harrison II has opened headquarters in Granite City in his campaign for a State Supreme Court judgeship.

And while it is too early yet for an endorsement, G. Edward Mormon, president of the Madison County Bar Association, said there is "no question (Harrison) is a viable candidate."

"He has been a judge and appellate judge for many years," Mormon said. Harrison, a Democrat from Collinsville, officially announced his intention to run in November of 1992 for a spot on the Illinois Supreme Court in the Fifth Judicial District in a fly-around campaign Wednesday which included stops in Edwardsville, Marion, Mt. Vernon, Effingham and Litchfield.

Harrison was the first candidate to announce such intentions. The high court seat was vacated upon the death of Justice Horace Calvo June 3, and is temporarily being filled by Justice Joseph Cunningham, Calvo's predecessor.

Harrison said he feels his 18 years of experience as a judge make him well qualified, and vowed to "expend all my time and energy" toward the decision-making process.

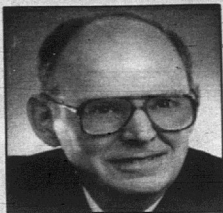

"I have never sought a teaching position or any other position to supplement my income," he said.

Harrison also said he is in favor of allowing cameras into the courtroom.

Senior judge on the Appellate Court, Harrison has served 12 years as an appellate judge and has served for two terms as the chief judge of the Appellate Court.

He was first elected circuit judge as a Democrat in 1974, after serving three years by appointment beginning Sept. 4, 1973.

He became Chief Circuit Judge in July 1978, and was named to the Fifth Appellate District bench effective in September 1979.

Harrison attended Collinsville schools and earned a bachelor degree in political science at Colorado College in 1954.

He received his law degree from Washington University in 1958.

The Fifth Judicial Circuit encompasses 37 counties ranging from Christian and Shelby counties in the north to the southern tip of the state.

Harrison's local headquarters is located at 2001 State St.

Family gets new rights in terminally ill cases

Family members and friends, rather than judges, will be able to make decisions over life or death for terminally ill people unable to express their own wishes.

The Health Care Surrogate Act was signed Sept. 26 by Gov. Jim Edgar, who said it "represents a cautious, compassionate and rational approach to one of the most agonizing decisions that people in our state may be called upon to make."

Sponsors of the bill argued it was needed in cases where it was clear someone would not recover but had not drafted a "living will" or a power of attorney giving instructions.

The National Right to Life Committee opposed the law, said Felicia Goecken of Alton, a board member of the national organization.

"It's frightening," Goecken said today. "It's another step toward euthanasia when a law could be passed to decide whether the elderly or anyone else should live or die."

The new law allows relatives, and in some cases friends, to make the decision, rather than a judge. It will apply only when two physicians have determined a patient is terminally ill or injured, unable to make a decision and the life-support system provides only minimal benefits.

Policeman, dog in running for award

Pontoon Beach Police Sgt. Daniel McKinney and his K-9 partner, Diablo, are semifinalists for a prestigious award.

McKinney and Diablo have been selected as semifinalists for the German Shepherd Dog Club of St. Louis' 1991 Outstanding K-9 Service Award in the categories of Suspect Apprehension, Controlled Substance Detection, Evidence Detection and Tracking.

"We all wish Danny and his dog lots of luck in this," Mayor Glen Wilson said.

Both McKinney and his partner have received commendations from several law enforcement departments for their assistance in uncovering narcotics and weapons and in searching buildings where suspects may be hiding or have hidden evidence.

The winner in each category will be announced at the club's Fall Show and Trial to be held Sunday, Oct. 6, at Love Country Park, located in west St. Louis County near the intersection of Manchester and Mason roads.

The awards ceremony will take place during the show's lunch break at approximately noon.

McKinney also received congratulations from Dyan W. Harper, K-9 Awards Committee chairman, who said the caliber of nominations was exceptional this year.

"All the officers who nominated their dogs have good reason to be proud of the service that their dogs are providing their communities," Harper said.

McKinney and Diablo have been members of the Pontoon Beach Police Department since June 2, 1987.

Diablo and his master were formerly with the Venice Police Department, where McKinney was an officer for eight years.

An experienced dog handler, McKinney graduated on two occasions from the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department's Canine Training School with two different animals.

Diablo is credited with saving McKinney during an incident on March 9, 1987, when a man pointed a gun at the officer.

The German Shepherd dog jumped on the man, forcing the gun down as the shot was fired. The same man reportedly fired two other shots at a Madison police officer prior to being located by McKinney and Diablo.

The 1987 case, Diablo's first encounter with a lawbreaker, was resolved only on July 15, 1991, when Kevin Clay Garrett, 34, of Venice pleaded guilty in Madison County Circuit Court to one count of attempted murder as a result of the shooting.

Diablo also successfully located narcotics on several searches he and his partner made to help his own department and investigations by other law enforcement agencies.

Thaw the hiring freeze

When the Granite City Council enacted a moratorium on hiring new city employees late last November, the action was intended to ensure "fiscal responsibility" at a time when the city's future financial picture was cloudy, at best.

Although the hiring freeze may have been appropriate at the time, current conditions seem to indicate that, in some instances at least, the moratorium has outlived its usefulness.

When the hiring freeze was enacted, the city was facing an estimated $1.2 million budget deficit. Revenue streams were drying up, the extension of the temporary state income tax surcharge was uncertain, and contract negotiations with all city workers were still unresolved. The action was an appropriate response to a bleak and unpredictable situation.

But since that time, the city has established a $6 per month fee for garbage collection, been assured of at least temporary, partial state funding from the surcharge, and negotiated apparent contract agreements with its employees. With a better handle on revenues and expenses, we think it is time for the council to re-evaluate the situation.

For example, City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart this week called the city's worker's compensation claims "out of control."

That should come as no surprise when one considers that the city has been without a safety director since Dick Portell resigned that position in May.

The fiscal year 1992 budget includes $35,000 for a new safety director's salary, so what's the holdup? With workers' comp and liability insurance premiums well in excess of a half-million dollars per year, according to MacTaggart's figures, a safety director would appear to be a good investment.

Police Chief Don Knight indicated last week that, because of the moratorium and a shortage of dispatchers, he has been forced to man the police dispatch desk with a patrolman on six of the 21 shifts per week.

The starting annual salary for a dispatcher is $17,595, with a raise to $20,000 after one year, Knight said. A probationary patrolman earns $27,470, and receives an increase to $28,324 after six months.

Thus the city is short yet another man on the street — four officers have retired since the freeze — and the officer on dispatch duty is being paid nearly $11,000 more than a newly hired employee would get to do the same job.

While new dispatchers would not "save money" per se, they would allow for a more efficient operation of city services. And with 911 looming in the near future, the hiring of new dispatchers is a certainty. The only question is "when?"

We are not urging an all-out hiring binge. But it appears to us a re-evaluation of the moratorium on hiring should be considered.

Don't break the budget on Soviet foreign aid

The following is a guest column by U.S. Sen. Christopher Bond, R-Mo.

We rejoice at the end of communism in Russia and share in the joy of the Soviet people for the turn toward freedom and democracy. It is a time for the Soviet government to move on with rapid internal reforms. This will be the key in the long-run to bailing out their economic troubles.

I oppose breaking last year's budget agreement to provide the Soviet Union with massive foreign aid.

I am amazed by the rush of some in Congress to write a large U.S. foreign aid check to prop up the outmoded Soviet economy. The Soviet Union and the republics need to establish democratic institutions, insure human rights and, most importantly, develop a free market economy. We should encourage these Soviet reforms, not bankrupt them.

Any U.S. aid to the Soviet Union and the republics should be in the form of humanitarian, emergency food assistance in setting up democratic and free market institutions.

The Soviet Union has been a major customer for U.S. agricultural commodities for many years. I support extending agricultural credits to insure that we maintain our share of this large agricultural market. I applaud Secretary of Agriculture Madigan's action advancing $315 million of the $1.5 billion credit guarantee package for the Soviet people. Missouri farmers will benefit from these expanded exports.

Some in Washington have suggested that we break the five-year U.S. budget reduction agreement made last year, in order to send foreign aid to the Soviet Union. It's extremely disappointing that the five-year budget agreement has not even passed its one-year anniversary before Congressmen propose to break it.

The budget agreement is the strictest restraint on government overspending that taxpayers have. Once that dam is broken, I'm afraid we'll see a flood of new spending. Breaking the agreement on reducing the deficit is the worst thing Congress could do to our economy.

Last year I proposed a substantial defense buildup and continue to support the 25 percent force reduction that is currently in the budget, but am amazed those who are opponents of our strong defense and tough Persian Gulf policies now propose, in light of our successes, to abandon the policies that made our nation successful.

The lesson of the Gulf is that superior, top-notch military technology and well-trained forces save American lives. Everyone agrees that we are going to spend substantially less for defense, but it must be done through an orderly buildup that does not sacrifice readiness.

We can apply perestroika and lend ideas and economic concepts to the Soviet Union, but we should not pay for them, especially when it would put us deeper in debt.

Three boosting higher education

TO THE EDITOR: I am writing to publicly say thank you to Ralph Burnett, Tom Hennrich, Gus Lignoul and American Legion Post 113 for giving the young men of our community an opportunity to further their education.

Through their efforts and support of the American Legion baseball program, seven young men from this year's team have received assistance in furthering their education. This includes everyone eligible and wanting assistance on the team.

The endeavor to see young men be the best they can be is exemplified in Ralph, Tom and Gus on the field and most importantly off the field.

They have constantly been in contact with college representatives to show the talents of the athletes in our community for the purpose of higher education. Their evaluation of players for college level competition is well respected and brings the recruits to the game.

I have followed Ralph's teams for the last three seasons and watching the young men develop as players and persons under Ralph's guidance has been a pleasure. Ralph will give "all the credit" to the players but ask and observe the players and you will see where the credit belongs.

I attempted to encourage my son, Rich, to play soccer in high school because I felt he would have a better chance of a scholarship due to Coach Baker's contacts. Rich did not want to play soccer and put his efforts in baseball. Thanks to Ralph Burnett, Tom Hennrich and Gus Lignoul, Rich made the right decision.

I think a well-respected baseball program for higher education has been created out of kindness; Ralph and Tom have not had a son in the program and Gus coached although his son was too old to play.

Once again, Thank You, Gentlemen. That's right, capital letters; you deserve it.

Still opposes pickups at curb

TO THE EDITOR: Let it be known that one year has passed and garbage pickup is still at curb-side in East Granite.

According to the cleanup program, it was stated that you paint your homes, put railings on your front steps and street numbers on the front of your houses.

That came the blow! The order came to place garbage and trash at curb-side. This was to be a pilot test program. As of now, this same program has been phased in the downtown area as a cleanup program, from 19th Street to Adams, Benton, Cleveland, and other streets. Could the next step be having to place your garbage and trash at curb-side like East Granite?

We have given our aldermen 1,900 signed petitions and, at present, we have a total of 1,913 in favor of alley pickup.

The United States Constitution states that we, as citizens, are granted and entitled to freedom of religion, speech, and the press, and the right to petition.

There are those who do not share much concern for the elderly, expecting them to move their garbage from back to front and, especially in bad weather, it could be dangerous. Since these people have been paying taxes longer than anyone else, it is only right that they be given consideration.

The aldermen in East Granite have accused civic-minded persons on the precinct committee of obtaining petitions, which they regard as political. The petitions are absolutely not political in nature but come under the heading of a public service and represent the voice of the people.

I'd like to thank all those who passed petitions and, also, those who signed them, and request the citizens to do their part in keeping their alleys clean so that garbage and trash can be returned and kept in their homes.

Paramedics get thanks for job

TO THE EDITOR: Here we go again about our ambulance services.

Mr. Mayor: Please, please don't let the city council decide to rely on it. And I'm one of them. If it hadn't been for my neighbor calling the firemen, I would have died to death. An artery in my stomach burst on an ulcer.

I kept throwing up hunks of blood. When I came to I called my neighbor, she thought someone stabbed me. She called the fire department. Before I knew it they were here. They worked with me, oxygen, etc. In minutes I was in the trauma room. ...

On Sunday night I had another hemorrhage and on Monday night, too.

The doctors decided on emergency surgery on my stomach. I spent 10 days in intensive care. I can thank God and Dr. Petrovich for my life. My family thought I was dying. The surgery went fine. I'm at home now. My stomach is still sore.

But please stick with our ambulance service. The paramedics know their job.

I want to thank all for their service.

Thank you, guys.

Many assisted in field events

TO THE EDITOR: On behalf of all concerned with the third annual Field Events for MDA held Labor Day weekend in Pontoon Beach, we would like to extend a very special thank you to the mayor of Pontoon Beach, Glen Wilson, for allowing us to hold these events in his community. Without his support, we would not have been able to raise $2,917.38 to donate to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Other thanks go out to the following:

Gary Wright, for coming up with (and pursuing) the idea to have these events and for donating the use of his field, where the events have taken place for the last three years.

All of the event officials, solicitors and workers, for making time and efforts to make these events a reality.

All the people and businesses who donated door and/or attendance prizes, food and drinks, tickets and flyers, T-shirts and supplies needed (free or at special prices).

All individuals, groups and club members who came out, participated, and opened their hearts and wallets, to help us in the fight against muscular dystrophy.

Finally, we would like to take this opportunity to give special recognition to the individuals and clubs who donated $50 or more to help us and Jerry's Kids fight MDA.

"Cowboy" from Granite City, Sally Dawgs M/C from Alton and P-Troop M/C from Granite City.

Again, We'd like to say thanks. The 3rd Annual Field Events Committee

Likes coverage of abuse case

TO THE EDITOR: In regard to your Sept. 8 Journal issue, I don't know if the police or the editor of the paper needs the compliment on the article.

I think all child sexual cases should have a picture.

That way, it stays in the people's minds to keep children away from this type of person.

Many times the name doesn't mean much but a picture does. I just want to say "Good job and keep it up."

Dance raised funds for trail

TO THE EDITOR: On behalf of the Fitness Trail Committee, I would like to thank all the supporters who attended the dance with Bob Kuban's prechestra a great success.

Approximately $1,600 was raised toward our goal of $80,000 to place an all-weather, asphalt track around Wilson Park.

Many thanks to Art Asadorian and St. Gregory's Hall for working with us. Bob Kuban and his band for a sensational performance, and Frank Laub, Tom Schooley, Bill Niepert with Air Products, and Vesce Distributing for their generous donations.

I would especially like to thank Sandy Shaw, Karen Melton and their families for coordinating the dance, decorating the hall, and supplying the food, and all the committee members and friends who spent countless hours selling dance and prize tickets.

Your help and consideration is greatly appreciated. Let's keep up the good work!

Medics aided senior citizen

TO THE EDITOR: Lately, there have been a number of letters of commendation written about Granite City's ambulance service. Nevertheless, I believe there is always room for one more.

Last year my mother-in-law, who resides in a senior citizen complex, fell and could not get up. She managed to scoot over to her desk, pull her telephone down onto the floor and call our home.

I summoned our local ambulance, gave them her address and they arrived there very promptly.

They were able to gain entrance into the senior citizen complex, which is kept locked because one of the ambulance personnel knew someone who lived in the building and she buzzed them in.

I wonder what the chances are of that happening with a contracted ambulance service?

And although they could not get into my mother-in-law's apartment until my husband and I arrived with the key, they comforted her by talking with her through the door.

On the way to the hospital, I noticed the driver proceeded with extra care out of consideration because she had suffered a back injury.

Those two men were very professional, well-trained and both kind and compassionate.

Employees who exhibit such a high degree of job performance are usually rewarded, never replaced.

First Presbyterian to celebrate centennial

Church faces membership drop

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

A landmark in Madison for the past century is the First Presbyterian Church at 1641 Third St. On Sunday, church members, friends and the community-at-large will be celebrating the 100th anniversary of the church.

But the substantial-looking brick structure with its portico supported by stately white columns is suffering a declining membership — it now has a roster of active members of only 29.

Despite the small membership, the centennial anniversary is expected to attract many former members and well-wishers, church officers said.

A communion service will begin the anniversary celebration at 11 a.m. Oct. 6 and the church will be filled with music during a special program from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

After the musical program, a tea will be served in the church basement, lasting until 4:30 p.m. Old photographs of past church activities and members will be displayed, most dating back to the flood of 1903 through the 1920s, 1940s and 1950s.

"Several times over the past years we thought that we might have to dissolve the church," Mina (Champion) McBrien, a member of the Session, the church's governing board, said Friday. "God must be watching over us as we continue to go on and keep afloat."

In 1891, the Rev. J.M. Spencer, an evangelist from the Synod of Missouri, under the auspices of the St. Louis Presbytery, began the mission work of the Madison church.

In the formative year, worship services were held in individual homes. Some of the names on church records at that time included T.T. and Anna Hinde and John and Anna Beal.

In May 1892, the Rev. Adolphus Kistler arrived to serve the mission and, in 1893, the Rev. B.H. Charles, D.D., assumed the pastoral duties and money was raised to build a church.

The church building was erected at Third and Ewing Avenue. The brick structure was designed with an open bell tower, steeply pitched roof and many windows. The arched main entranceway faced Ewing Avenue.

The first formal account of the constitution of the church was a petition and congregational meeting conducted on Nov. 25, 1894.

Families of record in those early years were: Hinde, Mettlen, Dragoo, Gordon, Miles, Jacobs, Hadley, Bauman, Jones, Ulffers, Booth, Martin, Neff, Garner and Beal.

In July 1899, the congregation requested release from the Presbytery of St. Louis and was received into the Presbytery of Alton.

Through the early 1900s, the congregation grew and service to the community was prevalent. Old-fashioned ice cream socials were held, providing family entertainment for the community as well as church members.

The rear of the church lot was used by area residents for games, with the understanding that no games be played on Sunday.

In 1909, a mission founded by the National Presbyterian Mission Board was established, with a Bulgarian worker in charge.

The mission was located on Madison Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets.

Dora Ashley, a church member, took over the mission leadership in 1919 and for years thereafter endeavored herself to people of foreign descent by acting as their teacher and adviser and providing instruction in language, cooking and legal matters.

Church members also volunteered their services as Sunday School teachers and mission workers.

On Dec. 25, 1924, the original church building was destroyed by fire. Two years later, in 1926, the present church building was dedicated and worship services have been conducted there continuously since that time.

In March 1909, records indicate there were 223 children in Sunday School, 45 members in the Christian Endeavor Society and 30 members in the junior Endeavor Society.

There are currently 22 children enrolled in Sunday School. Throughout its 100 years, the church has provided a Vacation Bible school for members and the community and sponsored Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops. Many citizens of Madison have attended, at one time or another, either the Mission Sunday School or Sunday School classes at the church.

In the early records, it was noted that a Ladies Circle was very active; the forerunner of the Peppy Class and the Mizpah Class. The Ladies Social Circle from the 1930s prepared meals for the Rotary and Lions clubs weekly meetings that met in the church basement.

"Even though we are few in number, we still maintain a food pantry to aid those in need," said Irene Hackett Orr, clerk of (See CHURCH, Page 6A)

The original First Presbyterian Church building, above, is quite a contrast to the current facility.

Community leaders helped form church in early 1900s

Community leaders who served the First Presbyterian Church in Madison in the early 1900s included Louis Baer, E.A. Smith, J.M. Bucher and J.G. Reynolds. Several families joining the ranks of church membership between 1920 and 1940 are still active today.

They include Harland-Benoit, Cramer, Filloff, Odum-Stephens, Hackett-Orr, Champion-McBrien, Cahill-Sherrills, Wilkerson, Miller, Fogle-Wedler and Bosworth.

Among the early church members were the families of Warren Champion and later his son, Bruce Champion.

Bruce's daughter, Mina (Champion) McBrien, is an ordained elder of the First Presbyterian Church and a longtime member of the Session, the governing board of the church. Mina formerly lived in Madison and now resides in Granite City.

Warren Champion started the Champion and Sons real estate business, helped to establish the Madison area as a village and served as one of the first village presidents.

Mina (Champion) McBrien's father, Bruce Champion, was the first child born after the Village of Madison was established in 1891.

Bruce was born on June 7, 1891. He became the mascot of the Madison Fire Department when he was 8 and wore a little uniform and badge, Mina said. Bruce went on through the ranks to become fire chief and set up the Madison Civil Defense in the 1940s, she said.

After being in the family real estate business for many years, Bruce moved to Sparta and became president and chief executive officer of the Sparta Savings and Loan.

Three of Bruce Champion's grandchildren still reside in Madison. Two are Mina's children, Dennis Bruce McBrien and Janet (McBrien) Lacunak. The third is Jack Warren "Bud" Champion Jr., the son of Mina's brother, the late Jack Warren Champion, who died in 1967.

The Session, and Mina Champion McBrien.

"We have also been involved in collecting winter coats for the needy and making sandwiches for the homeless," the women said.

"Members have worked in the church food booth at city festivals and took part in local celebrations by entering floats in the 75th and 100th anniversary parades in the community."

The Men's Club has been active for many years and has provided maintenance and fundraising pancake and sausage breakfasts to benefit the church.

Traditionally, the Men's Club provides the fruit and candy for children's Christmas treats.

Music has always been a large part of First Presbyterian Church life.

Mrs. Harry Schooley formed a church choir in 1926 and later a choir under the direction of Bruce Hill was prominent in the community as well as the church.

A junior choir and handbell choir later were formed.

A parade of accomplished organists served through the years, including Edith McElwain, Ruth Fogle, Flavel Brooks, Helen Gitchell McKee, Rae Morris Miller, Linda Bonatti, Jean Lionberger and Dorothy Lionberger.

The current organist is Tom Wilkerson who, along with his brother, George Wilkerson, provide the music for worship with voice, piano, organ and guitar.

George composes his own music and he and Tom have collaborated on several compositions.

College test scheduled here

Granite City High School sophomores may participate in a new program being offered by the American College Testing Program Oct. 28-29.

The program, P-ACT+, familiarizes students with and provides an estimate of how the student will perform on the Enhanced ACT Assessment, ACT's college entrance program. P-ACT+ includes four academic tests, an interest inventory, a study skills test, an educational/occupational plans section and a student needs profile, according to Mike Johnson, a counselor at Granite City High School.

The purpose of the program is to give sophomores an early start on planning and preparing for their futures, Johnson said.

Students may register for the P-ACT+ between Oct. 7 and Oct. 25 in the high school Guidance Office. A $6.50 fee is payable at

Sinacori to be here tonight

Danny Sinacori will bring his ministry to the Word of Life Tabernacle in Granite City at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3.

Sinacori learned to play the piano by listening to the church pianist and his ministry has taken him to some of the largest church platforms of America as well as appearances on national television shows.

He has served as associate pastor at Calvary Temple in Springfield, and at First Assembly of God in Peoria. Pastor Henry Crippen will welcome Sinacori at Word of Life, at 12th Street and Edwardsville Road.

Holiday Harvest festival scheduled here this weekend

Activities for the whole family are planned at Holiday Harvest, a two-day festival of fun and relaxation to be held Oct. 5 and 6 at Belleke's Farms on Sand Prairie Road just off Illinois Route 111.

The pumpkins are ripe and the crops of Indian corn, gourds and other fall items are ready.

For children, there will be pony rides, three straw houses, a straw maze, a straw playground with a built-in slide, and a Kiddie Castle.

The Haunted Barn this year will feature its psychedelic room.

In addition, there will be games and prizes, including a soccer kick, football toss, spider jump, bumper cars, bowling alley and duck pond.

A Kiddie tractor pull is always a favorite along with hay rides and visits from McDonaldland's characters.

Helium balloons will be sold and visitors can get their picture taken with The Great Pumpkin.

A petting zoo will feature farm animals and the tree house will feature extinct animals.

This year's event will host a Society Horse Shoe Toss and Walkers will be displayed on Saturday from noon to 3 p.m.

Horse-drawn buggy rides will again be offered. In addition, agricultural displays will provide information about farming and its products to the public.

Food will be plentiful. Home-made baked goods will be sold. Apple butter will be cooked at the festival grounds and there will be a bee and honey display.

Crafts will abound. The Old Six Mile Historical booth will be featured and people can take home a hand-painted pumpkin from a pumpkin booth. Prizes will be given away, and there will be music by Steven Simms and Ed Bush.

This event, sponsored by the Illinois and Missouri Farm Bureaus, KMOX Radio and National Supermarkets, is held annually to help needy children enjoy a special Christmas season.

Eighteen charities, including Illinois Center of Autism, Boys Town of Missouri, Hoytson Children's Home and the Promise Center, are supported through the money taken in at Holiday Harvest.

"To date, more than $270,000 has been raised simply because farmers and city folks worked together," a spokesman said.

OUT-OF-TOWN SPENDING IS ECONOMIC SUICIDE

It's a bold statement... and unfortunately very true. Dollars spent in your hometown are not only the lifeline of local merchants but also the entire community. Each dollar spent at home helps farmers, teachers, wage earners, everyone. As money rolls over locally it helps support public services, schools, churches and hundreds of other groups and organizations.

Recent surveys indicate that small town residents that leave their communities to shop in big-city malls are committing a form of economic suicide. This trend is so severe that the end of many small town business districts is very near.

The secret to changing the "Use us or lose us" headline to "Local economy prosper" is simple: Shop At Home.

he expects criminal charges to be filed pending the results of laboratory tests.

"We have collected a lot of physical evidence from the truck and golf course, including pictures, soil samples, from the truck and course, paint scrapings, tire tracks and tire marks. Hopefully, the evidence will be returned from the lab in short order," Fields said.

He said the owner of the truck, when he was interrogated Monday morning, claimed that his license plate had been lost or stolen prior to the damage to the golf course, but no report was made of the alleged incident.

"We have to be able to put the truck on the golf course and him behind the wheel to prove our case," Fields explained.

The suspect is a 27-year-old resident of Florissant, Mo., whose parents live in Granite City, according to a report.

Wednesday the city will be prepared to continue to provide one way or another, the basic health service of garbage collection (currently) provided by the street department until this unfortunate situation is resolved.

In an apparent effort to prevent the union from replacing workers, Alderman Jim Caffrey presented the City Council with a petition Tuesday night containing approximately 1,000 signatures. They read:

"We, the undersigned, being citizens of the city of Madison, Ill., hereby request that the City Council not even consider the idea of subcontracting the Sanitation Department's duties to a private, non-union contractor. We do not desire to see our city acting in any manner that could be interpreted as a union-busting activity."

The petitions were received and placed on file. Following a closed session Tuesday night, Caffrey proposed that the city allow an arbitrator to settle the dispute. But that motion was defeated by a 5-3 vote, the Aldermen said.

John Hamm and Mike Vrabek voted in favor of arbitration. Vrabek said he voted to take the matter to arbitration for three reasons. First, he said, the negotiating committee has indicated it feels the city would win in arbitration. Second, the city has called off further negotiations, a practice which Vrabek feels is unfair. Finally, he said, he has not seen proof that, in the event the city would lose in arbitration, tax increase would be necessary to cover the expense.

"I'm not in favor of a tax increase, either. There are other ways and means to meet the financial needs of the city without raising taxes," Vrabek said. "We're talking about people who live here and are trying to raise families. What I have heard (the union is) offering is not unfair, in my opinion."

While Tessary estimated damage to the greens at about $100,000, he said the daily loss of revenue, due to the inability to play the entire course, is his main concern.

"Expediency is the main thing now. We have two tournaments coming up, along with our regular players wanting to play," he said.

The Southwestern Conference High School tournament, scheduled to be played at Arlington today, has been moved to the nearby Legacy Golf Course.

Tessary said that the person who did the damage was familiar with the course, and intended to shut the club down.

"You can tell by looking that somebody was definitely out to hurt our business," he said.

"Word gets out that Arlington has the best greens around, and the fairways are dynamic, and people come around and play. But something like this that closes you down for three or four days can get out, too," he said.

He estimated that the club had received more than 100 telephone calls asking if the course is open.

Fields said, to his knowledge, the suspect has no financial interest in any other golf course in the area.

Part owner Nick Jakich said the incident occurred at one of the busiest times of the year for Arlington.

In an apparently separate incident, a fire in a storage shed at the golf course at about 9:30 p.m. Sunday caused an estimated $73,500 damage.

According to Long Lake Fire Chief Mike Becker, a faulty electrical unit, used to recharge golf carts, caused the blaze. Jakich said 21 golf carts were ruined by the fire. A new golf cart costs about $3,500.

The Sheriff's Department is investigating the fire as well. "The most important thing is, we are going to get every green open Friday," Tessary said.

Lions warm up for Candy Day ritual

Lucille Martin covers the Pontoon Beach scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 291-0731.

The roar of Lions will soon be heard across the state as members of local Lions clubs, including Pontoon Beach, will hit the streets on Oct. 11 shaking their cans and requesting money from all they see.

For the 39th year, since 1952, Lions will participate in their fall ritual, commonly called Candy Day. This is the one day of the year they go all out to raise the money, so desperately needed, to help those who are blind or visually-impaired and those who are deaf or hearing-impaired in Illinois. Helping the Lions will be members of the Lioness Clubs and Leo Clubs, as well as hundreds of volunteers.

At 14 sites across the state, they gathered at giant pep rallies to work up enthusiasm needed to get out in all kinds of weather and traffic conditions to raise funds.

These pep rallies are called Lion Jamborees. The Lions are fed and given a dose of enthusiasm. This enthusiasm sometimes comes in the form of children who are deaf or blind and have just gotten back from one of the Lions camps. It may be a young mother or father, who after having a child for the first time. It may also be one of the many thousands of people being helped by the Lions, everyday, with glasses, hearing aids, dogs, canes, etc.

Helen Keller spoke to the Lions at their convention in 1925 and asked them to become "Knights of the Blind." While they don't wear suits of armor they, nevertheless, have become the greatest knights ever to throw down the gauntlet. The Lions of Illinois along with Lions across the world, in 171 different countries, have thrown the gauntlet down at their convention in St. Louis in 1990 when they committed $106 million dollars to cure all curable blindness and prevent all preventable blindness all over the world. So when you approached by a Lion on Candy Day, please dig deep and give generously.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Many landlords never enter into a written lease with their tenants. They simply operate on an informal basis with both parties understanding the amount of rent which is to be paid. Sometimes a dispute arises between a landlord and tenant in these situations where there is no written lease. It then becomes important to understand the rights of the respective parties in these matters.

When there is no written lease for a definite term, Illinois law presumes that the parties are operating under a month to month tenancy. This means that the landlord can give the tenant 30 days written notice to leave the property. Likewise, the tenant can give the landlord the same notice of his intention to vacate the property. Neither is obligated for an extended period of time, and this can prove to be an advantage or disadvantage depending on the circumstances of the parties.

In one recent case, a tenant became dissatisfied with the condition of his apartment. There was no written lease, and he notified the landlord in writing that he would be leaving in ten days. This notice was provided on January 21 and the tenant was gone by February 1. The landlord sent him a bill due to the fact that he did not receive the requisite 30 day notice. The case wound up in Court, and the Judge assessed the tenant the additional rent.

In another case, a tenant without a written lease had lived in an apartment for more than two years. She had always been a model tenant, and she was never late with the rent. In the middle of winter, she received a 30 day written notice from the landlord to vacate the premises. She inquired as to whether the landlord needed a good reason to terminate her tenancy. With a month to month tenancy, the landlord can evict the tenant for any reason or for no reason at all as long as the proper notice is given.

It is apparent that there are certain disadvantages to the informal month to month tenancy. The tenant can be forced to leave with very little opportunity to make other arrangements, and the landlord likewise can find himself without a renter with only 30 days notice. On the other hand, many landlords and tenants like this informal arrangement because it gives them the freedom to remove themselves from an undesirable situation.

Controlled pace needed vs. Flyers

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Warrior football team has done its job for four weeks. Now they branch off into another realm.

Granite City takes its 4-0 record to brand-new Clyde C. Jordan Stadium in East St. Louis tomorrow for a 5 p.m. showdown with the 3-1 Flyers. The Warriors are 2-0 in the Southwestern Conference and East Side is 1-0. Granite City's playoff hopes will still be very good even with a loss. But a victory would go a long way towards a conference championship and an automatic playoff bid.

"You can't say enough about East St. Louis," said Warrior coach Tom Wyrostek. "What else is there to say except they're a great football team? Belleville West scored a touchdown on them last week and they made the necessary adjustments on defense and shut them down the rest of the way (53-7)." But it's the Flyers offense which is the big worry. After a shaky 1-1 start in which they struggled to move the ball, East St. Louis was back to its old self the last two weeks after the return of senior running back Chris Moore. He had been suspended by head coach Bob Shale for four weeks in pre-season, but that was cut to two.

... not intimidated

"Moore is their whole team," said Warrior quarterback/safety Drake Marshall. "I really don't think their passing game is that great. He just throws it up in the air and the receivers run under it."

"He is senior quarterback DeAndre Singleton. He felt the loss of Moore the first two weeks. The Flyers were shut out in their home opener, a 22-0 loss to Muskogee (Okla.). Singleton has completed only 35 percent of his passes this year.

Larry Curry
... no room for mistakes

"Moore makes their passing game better," said Warrior tight end/linebacker Larry Curry, the team captain along with Marshall. "We just can't make any mistakes. I was in the stands the day we beat them (Oct. 4, 1986). We played a perfect game and beat them (17-14)."

The Warriors are quicker than they used to be, but still nothing like the Flyers. They will have to control the tempo. Expect them to punt out of bounds and kick off short to avoid long returns. Mostly, the Warriors have to hold on to the ball.

"I watched the Bears play the Bills on Sunday," said Wyrostek. "The Bears were able to control the tempo in the first half and they did all right. But once Buffalo got all the momentum and their speed took over, it was a different game."

The Bills led 7-6 at halftime, then exploded for a 35-20 win. The Warriors will have to play Bear football the whole game, not just for a half.

"I wish we were as good as the Bears," said Marshall. "We can't be intimidated by East St. Louis. They're just another football team, and on a given day they can be beaten."

"We're not going down there thinking we have nothing to lose," said Curry. "We want to play well and make them respect us. There's always improvement needed, but I think we've been able to stay focused each week so far. Nobody talked about East St. Louis until this week."

Nor has anybody talked much about last year's game, a 49-0 Flyers win at Memorial Stadium in which they scored 28 points in the first half as Moore, Homer Bush and Jerry Creer ran wild.

"I don't hear too much about that game," said Marshall, who was steamrolling someone else that weekend along with his Belleville Althoff teammates.

"We got caught up in the hype too much last year," said Curry. "It's always embarrassing when you get your butts kicked, no matter how good the other team is."

Granite City has been fairly effective running inside on the Flyers, even in games they have lost by big scores — and they have been outscored 174-6 by East Side in four games, since the 1986 win. But it doesn't take much for the Flyers to be off to the races.

"We can't afford turnovers and missed assignments," said Wyrostek.

2nd scoreless tie leaves Warriors, Kahoks even

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Fans of the Warrior and Kahok soccer teams took a while to leave The Gauntlet late Tuesday night.

There was only one narrow exit and the overflow crowd moved slowly, in at close quarters, with no one able to make much headway.

It was symbolic. Their two soccer teams had just gone through another 100 minutes of jockeying for position, but nothing was solved. The second scoreless tie in as many meetings in 1991 left the Southwestern Conference race and the battle for the top seed in the sectional up for grabs.

The Warriors extended their unbeaten streak to nine (6-0-3) and are now 7-1-3 overall, with a 3-0-2 SWC record. The Kahoks, after losing the season opener, are 8-1-2 overall, with a 2-0-2

Granite City and Collinsville have played 200 minutes of scoreless soccer against each other this season. Something will have to be settled in the Collinsville Sectional next month.

it slid over to sophomore Brian Kohler on the left side. It looked like a certain goal, and Kohler unleashed a rocket shot to the opposite corner. Bolandis reacted and deflected it out of play. "Bolandis is an all-star," said Collinsville coach Ron Rowden. "There was poor marking on our part and he saved us from point-blank range."

Rowden was happy to get a tie in enemy territory, but he really wasn't pleased with his team's play.

It was a garbage game on our part," he said. "We never got the ball on the ground to make for a good possession game. The week off the Kahoks hadn't played since Sept. 21 hurt us in that respect."

The Kahoks' best shot came early in the second quarter as senior Steve Van Dyke was able to get free at the top of the penalty area. But Warrior substitute goalie Tim Henson made the save on the way to his third shutout of the year.

Matt Chambliss of the Kahoks broke away down the right wing in the first 10-minute overtime, but Brent Dippel came back and knocked the ball away before he could get a shot off. Then Brian Campbell of the Kahoks knocked a loose ball off the goal line in the second overtime.

"We had a few more chances tonight than in the first game," said Baker. "Maxfield was awesome tonight, and we got good league mark. The teams played a scoreless tie in Collinsville on Sept. 12.

"I thought we dominated the first quarter, and then all of a sudden," said Warrior coach Gene Baker. "But that's not to discredit (Collinsville). There was a lot of good attacking soccer for a scoreless game. We had a couple of beautiful chances."

The first big one came with two minutes left in the third quarter. Senior Josh Neidhardt changed one of the posts from point-blank range after junior Jason Maxfield had been triple-teamed in the right corner. He was able to get loose for a centering pass, which Neidhardt just failed to convert.

Then Kahok goalie Mike Bolandis, who now has 10 straight shutouts and has allowed only one goal all year, showed why with 2½ minutes left in regulation time. Eric Davis had his shot blocked, but

Lady Warriors get first road triumph

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

COLLINSVILLE — By beating the Kahoks on Tuesday, the Warrior volleyball team won its first road victory.

Granite City improved to 3-6 (2-3 in the conference) with a 15-11, 3-15, 15-4 victory. Last year, the Warriors were 4-18.

"Their confidence is starting to improve," said first-year coach Cindy Gagich. "They are starting to build on teamwork and ability. They're beginning to believe in themselves."

The Warriors had to overcome an 8-1 deficit to win the first game. Jamie Cavaness (13 points) scored four to give Granite City a 10-9 lead. Jennifer Wortham picked up three points and Karen Sykes the final two.

"We're a young team (two seniors)," said Collinsville coach Jeff Barnett. "We can't stay up when we're ahead, and we can't seem to come back when we're down."

They got ahead and stayed ahead in the middle game, however, as Lori Hoppes (12 points) led the way.

"They had some tough serving in the second game," said Gagich. "We couldn't return service and then we couldn't run our plays."

Granite City took a cue from Collinsville and ran away with the decisive game. Cavaness reeled off six points for a 7-2 lead. It was 7-4 when Wortham took over. She had her best serving game of the year with several straight points before Sykes ended the match with the final point.

"Wortham did a good job," said Gagich. "Her consistency kept the momentum on our side. The match came down to who had the momentum."

Better net play has helped the Warriors win three of four matches since losing the first five. Tuesday's win was their first road win of the year.

"Stephanie Kult is really developing into a strong middle hitter," said Gagich. "With the improvement we've had up front by Stephanie and Jamie, that makes us a stronger team."

An important test comes tonight at home against Belleville East. Granite City lost to the Lancers earlier, but a split of the season series would be a big boost.

It was important for us to beat Collinsville because it was a conference game and because of the big rivalry," said Gagich. "The girls are looking forward to East. We had a chance to see where they beat us last time."

"Wortham did a good job,"

Madison football

have great team speed and they always seem to play us tough. We've had some anxious moments against them in the past."

The Tigers only led 7-0 at the intermission last year in Madison before winning 35-0. The Trojans won only one game last season and are 0-4 this year. Plagued by eligibility problems, Madison hasn't fielded a full team since the first week of the season.

The greatest loss has been junior running back/linebacker James Wellmaker, who won't suit up for the third consecutive week.

"James has fallen behind in his studies and he's having one heck of a time getting back on the playing field," Madison coach Mark Jiles said. "Losing him is like going to war without all your bullets."

SWC tournament moved to Legacy

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Vandalism at Arlington Golf Course has forced the movement of today's Southwestern Conference Tournament to The Legacy.

Nine greens at Arlington were damaged Saturday when a vehicle drove through. In what proved to be a bad weekend for the course, a fire Sunday in a shed damaged several golf carts. "They think that fire was legitimate (i.e. not arson)," said Warrior golf coach Russ Chapell. "But thanks to the Englelake family we'll be able to hold the (conference) tournament at The Legacy."

Chapell said his players have played some at The Legacy, but they have much more experience at Arlington.

"This certainly doesn't enhance our chances any," he said. "But the other teams haven't played at The Legacy all, so it won't hurt us in that respect. There are about the same amount of water hazards and really trees to speak of. It was the only thing to do, so as tournament manager I did it. I think it's fair."

Chapell said re-sodding has already started at Arlington and the course should be ready for use within a week or two at the most.

Meanwhile, the Warriors wrapped up their most successful regular season ever Tuesday by sweeping Edwardsville, Wood River and Roxana at Belk Park. Granite City (16-2) shot 158 as Joe Brewer and Jon Duff tied at 39. Bart Alsop and Josh McClelland shot 40s. Mike Suhrle led Edwardsville (167) with a 40.

Wood River shot 190 and Roxana carded 192.

Granite City expects to battle Belleville East for the conference title, then the regional is Tuesday at Belk Park.

The Warriors (157.6) are second to Nashville (156.6) in rankings compiled this week by the Metro East Golf Coaches Association. Mascoutah, whom the Warriors tied twice, is next at 157.8. Brewer is ninth in the area at 158.3 and Duff is eighth at 158.3. Nashville's Dustin Diedrich leads at 157.8.

Warriors impress Shannon; Flyers ready for challenge

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Do the Flyers believe the Warriors are for real?

Granite City was also 4-0 a year ago as East St. Louis came to town for a Southwestern Conference showdown the fifth week of the season. The Flyers won 49-0 to stay unbeaten.

Many consider this to be another mismatch, but East St. Louis coach Bob Shannon isn't so sure.

"I've seen Granite City, and I've been impressed," he said. "They're a much better football team than they were a year ago. They have size, and they have a talented quarterback in Drake Marshall.

"He's a hard-nosed player. He handles the offense and the defense very well. He's quick, and he makes intelligent decisions."

But stopping Marshall doesn't necessarily mean stopping the Warriors.

"No way," Shannon said. "They've got a great ball-control offense. They're conservative, but they move the ball effectively up and down the field. We scouted them against Collinsville and they executed their offense to perfection. They're averaging nearly 35 points a game. They're for real."

But the Flyers (1-0, 3-1) have a few weapons of their own, including senior running back Chris Moore, who rushed for 163 yards and scored three touchdowns against the Warriors last year — all in the first half.

Moore, who sat out the first two games of this season for disciplinary reasons, has gained 411 yards and scored seven TDs since his return.

"A lot of people thought we brought Chris back because we lost the Muskogee (Okla.) game," Shannon said. "But that's not true. We had made our minds up he was coming back the week of that game. He's doing what we've asked of him, so we gave him his parole."

After struggling the first two weeks, the Flyers are back to their old selves. They manhandled Jefferson City (Mo.) 27-7, then hardly broke a sweat in their 53-7 triumph on Saturday against Belleville West.

"Sure, we scored 53 points, but our execution wasn't very good," Shannon said. "We're still looking for consistency out of our people. Once we catch the football, run the football and block on a consistent basis, this team will be ready to play the elite teams."

So are the Flyers, who had their 26-game winning streak snapped by Muskogee on Sept. 13, ripe for another upset?

"We'll be ready to play," Shannon said. "We've had our share of big games this season. We know our strengths and weaknesses, and who our good players are. The biggest fear a coach can have is how his team will respond when things aren't going its way."

incentive for our kids, especially the seniors. Those guys don't want a loss to Madison in their final Homecoming game.

But Madison doesn't plan on being a sacrificial lamb. "Our kids are still learning on a weekly basis," Jiles said. "We'll be ready for Dupo. Beating them would be quite an accomplishment. They're always ranked among the state leaders, and they have a lot of tradition in their program. That's why we look forward to playing them every year."

Meanwhile, the Tigers enter the game with some bumps and bruises. Lineman Ron Harselton has a sore arm and is listed as questionable. But running back Cliff Ticer (hip pointer) and quarterback Brandon Portell (sore ankle) will play.

"We're a little banged up," Mauser said. "But we'll have everyone ready to go. Hopefully, we can build a big lead early and rest those guys for our next two games (Freeburg and Columbia)."

Mauser is counting on his seniors to avoid a letdown. "It's Homecoming," Mauser said. "So that should be quite an games out of Henson, Mark McKeehan and (freshman) John Nizinski.

"I thought we were able to control our emotions. It was a big game with a big crowd looking on, but we kept our heads on straight. The best indication is we didn't get a yellow card all night."

The Kahoks picked up three, although none of them affected much of anything.

"I'm happy to get a tie here, but we had the opportunity to win," said Rowden. "Van Dyke had a couple of good shots. But our guys were just missing the ball sometimes. The big thing was not keeping the ball on the ground and in possession. We were moving too quickly and Granite had the numbers to get to the ball and cut us off before we could control. We have a veteran team that should be better at that."

"We didn't have very good field vision most of the night. For a short time we did, and we got the ball through and had some chances."

The Warriors outshot the Kahoks 8-4, and the corner kick totals were the same. The fouls were relatively even (20 for Granite City, 19 for Collinsville). "This isn't bad considering we had a 17-1 shot advantage Saturday and had to settle for a scoreless tie (against Quincy Notre Dame)," said Baker, whose team has now been shut out for the last 198-31.

But the Trojans still have some weapons in sophomore quarterback Jason Jones and senior running back Cernyn Macon.

"Jason hasn't played much at quarterback," Jiles said. "He's been nursing a sore ankle, but we have to get him back there to pick up some experience. Cernyn has been filling in, but he's a greater weapon at running back. Playing quarterback cuts down on his big-play abilities."

Most unhappy customers stay quiet, shop elsewhere

By Margaret Duncan
Correspondent

Area business people were able to learn more about keeping customers happy at a Better Business Bureau "Customer Satisfaction Seminar" at the Collinsville Holiday Inn Sept. 24.

The seminar was developed by the Better Business Bureau in conjunction with the Maritz Corporation, a nationally recognized leader in sales training and motivation programs.

The seminar was conducted by Better Business Bureau President James C. Schmitt.

Schmitt began the three-hour session by saying that in today's marketplace, literally millions of transactions take place each day and errors and misunderstandings are bound to occur.

"However, this statistical truth is of no concern to the individual consumer — your customer," who believes he has been mistreated or wronged," Schmitt said.

Studies conducted by Technical Assistance Research Programs, a Washington, D.C.-based firm, found that most complaint-handling practices in many American companies need to be upgraded.

The average business does not hear from 96 percent of its unhappy customers. "The majority of these non-complainers will simply not buy again from the company they're unhappy with and that company will never know why," said Schmitt.

Schmitt believes that many businesses do not take advantage of this opportunity to turn a customer's temporary dissatisfaction into long-term customer loyalty.

Studies have shown that 95 percent of dissatisfied customers will give you a second chance if their problem is resolved quickly and they are treated fairly when the initial problem occurs.

Schmitt said, "It is becoming increasingly important — and less expensive — to keep existing customers than to gain new ones."

In dealing with today's customers, all potential causes of the customers' dissatisfaction must be considered, Schmitt said.

Underlying factors which contribute to unhappy customers include:

- A wide range of product choices, coupled with a lack of information on which to base an intelligent decision, and
- Advanced technology, which complicates the design of a product. These products often come with complicated technical instructions.

All this can be frustrating to the customer who just wants to buy the product.

Schmitt lists seven "sins of service" that often apply to businesses: apathy, the brush-off, coldness, condescension, robotism, going by the rule book and the run-around.

"If any of these sins apply to your business or employees, you have some changes to make," Schmitt said. An ongoing commitment handed down by management that the customer is the most important asset to a business must be made.

Speed is essential in responding to customer dissatisfaction. "Your customer should be assured that you care and that prompt remedial action will be taken to resolve any reasonable problem," Schmitt said.

Schmitt recommends communicating answers to customers' questions and your position on their complaint by telephone rather than by mail. The longer a customer waits, the greater the chance he will go elsewhere.

When trying to resolve a problem, it is best to remember that first impressions are crucial. They include observations on your appearance, facial expressions, movements, voice and tone.

"It's obviously true, literally, that you never get a second chance to make a good first impression," Schmitt said. Studies have shown that customers form very firm and often long-lasting impressions of a business in the first four minutes of an encounter.

People can and frequently do shift from a first impression to a secondary impression, however, though it takes much more time and much more data for this to happen.

Every business goal is the "bottom line," but unless businesses have satisfied customers, they can't project their bottom-line profits.

"Every day is open season on customers," Schmitt said. "Any business can catch customers. You have to lure customers with good products. You keep customers with service."

Hundreds of companies offer the same products and services, but it's the company that provides excellent service along with the product that will keep customers coming back.

Schmitt has been with the Better Business Bureau for more than 20 years. He has been presenting this seminar for less than a year, but he and his staff have held approximately 70 seminars, reaching more than 1,400 businesses.

Revised family leave policy gets another go in Congress

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Workers would enjoy a new benefit — 12 guaranteed weeks of unpaid leave to handle matters such as birth, adoption or caring of a family member — under provisions of a bill being considered by Congress.

A compromise plan written by Sen. Christopher Bond, R-Mo., has breathed new life into the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, Senate staffers say.

The bill is awaiting Senate vote, sources said. Those sources were unsure when that vote would happen, although all said it would be this year.

But don't count on claiming this new benefit yet, President George Bush vetoed similar legislation last year, saying government shouldn't mandate benefits that business should provide, which is the same position the business community takes.

More importantly, the bill applies to companies with 50 or more employees, which means mandated family leave would be available to only 44 percent of the workforce, according to the General Accounting Office, an investigative division of Congress.

While the Capitol Hill debate rages, workers at two major St. Louis employers — McDonnell Douglas Corp. and Monsanto Co. — are reaping the benefits of family leave policies.

"We wanted to do what was right, not what was mandated," said Lori Pavadore, manager of organizational development at Monsanto. "Bottom line, it's really the right thing to do for employees," she said.

The new policy granting up to a one-year leave of absence from Monsanto was approved in March.

Pavadore's view that it's "the right thing to do" is the position taken by proponents of family leave legislation.

"In a day and age when the majority of families need two paychecks to keep their heads above water, it is inconceivable we do not have job security when a family emergency takes place," argues Rep. Marge Roukema, a New Jersey Republican and sponsor of family leave legislation.

An early champion of family leave was Rep. William J. Clay, a St. Louis Democrat. When he and Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., first proposed mandated family leave in 1985, the bill called for up to 26 weeks of unpaid leave at companies with at least five employees.

Nearly identical bills passed House and Senate committees in April. The bills call for 12 weeks of unpaid leave each year for employees who work at least 1,000 hours a year, about 20 hours a week. Plus, the employer continues to pay for the worker's health insurance.

The House apparently is waiting to see what happens with the Senate version, sources say.

Both bills were mothballed while political maneuvering continued. Backers, noting that last year's vote to overturn Bush's veto fell 54 votes short, were searching for additional support. Capitol Hill sources report.

Opponents continue to hammer at the bill.

"We oppose mandates," says Sheelash Yawitz, executive director of the Missouri Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Murray Weidenbaum, executive director of the Center for the Study of Business, also complains about the bill.

"I don't see how (family leave) helps the competitiveness of American industry," Weidenbaum said.

Bond's shift into the pro-family leave camp "is a big plus," Senate staffer said. Bond had voted against previous family leave bills.

In recent months, however, Bond had been lobbying the Bush Administration to back pro-family legislation, as Bond spokeswoman says. One reason for his change of heart: Studies showed the cost of maintaining the health benefits of an employee on family leave was considerably less than the cost to recruit and train a new employee replacing the one who quit to handle a family crisis.

Congressional studies put the price of maintaining health insurance at $5 to $7 per employee per year.

The senator's compromise plan addresses several major problems Missouri business executives saw in the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, the spokeswoman continues.

Under the Bond compromise, key executives who are non-union, to the company can be exempted from the bill's provisions, and health insurance premiums can be recovered from workers who don't return to work once their leave is exhausted.

Bond's chief contribution is a requirement that employees needing extended medical leave get a note from their doctor. In the case of employees caring for a sick family member, the doctor's note must explain that no other family member is available, a Bond legislative assistant says.

"We feel we have taken away the potential for abuse" of family leave, the Bond staffer said.

Yawitz is unmoved by Bond's plan.

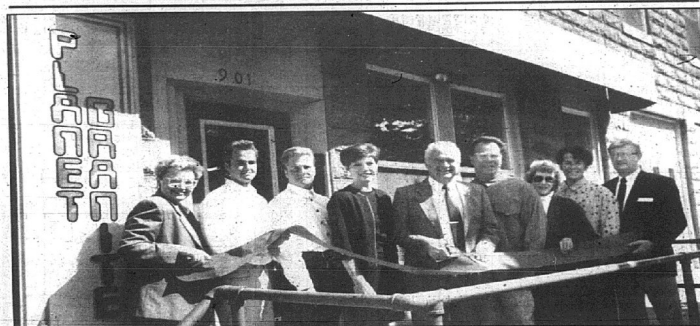

"We still oppose family leave; it's still a mandate on business," Yawitz said.

Meanwhile at McDonnell Douglas, about 400 employees have used family leave since it was implemented in March, a spokeswoman says. They generally have taken three or four weeks off. Policy allows 12 weeks over two years — to care for and search for a nursing home for ill parents.

Monsanto promises workers who are on family leave for three months or less that they'll get their old job back. Those who are out longer are guaranteed a similar job at their old salary.

"If someone has a need to leave, we expect the managers to give it to them," Pavadore says.
